

A photograph of the exterior of The Old Bushmills Distillery. The building is constructed of multi-colored bricks and has a dark tiled roof. Two small, four-paned windows with dark frames are visible on the upper floor. A large, dark green sign with gold lettering is mounted on the wall. Below the sign is a green-painted section of the building with a white door and a wooden bench. A person is standing in the foreground, looking towards the building. The ground is wet and reflective.
